Gentlemen:

For the past month or six weeks there has been a steady amount of waste (oil) from the Western Gas Plant, or at least it seems to from there, which comes by my house on each outgoing tide. I understand that they had a bulkhead going out several weeks ago and it was quite bad at that time. It seems to me that we have more oil and waste in the water now than for some time previously. Of course, there are three or four oil companies who have docks up the channel. I would appreciate it if someone would investigate this and also if I knew who to contact when this is going on.

Sincerely,

J. E. Haddon
